Discover

Nowhere is the history of the Ruhr District as present as in the Landschaftspark Duisburg-Nord, hardly anywhere else are the changing times so tangible. Where until 1985 blast furnaces still burned and pig iron would begin the process of being turned into steel, a unique world of adventure now stretches out across the site, each year attracting hundreds of thousands of visitors.

Whether on your own or as part of a guided tour, the name of the game is exploring the Landschaftspark with your every sense. Not only seeing, but immersing yourself completely in the history of the old works which has been witness to so many changes. This is what makes the Landschaftspark one of the most extraordinary attractions in the Ruhr District and represents structural change at its most beautiful.

For all explorers: there's a plan of the park in the Visitors' Centre.

Wonder

Industrial history does not end, it continues to develop. In the Landschaftspark this is visible in the spectacular interplay between art, nature and culture and the old ironworks.

Since closure of the works, the blast furnaces have been surrounded by the reawakening world of nature. The seeds which found their way here on the ore carriers from all over the world now bear colourful blossom. The blast furnaces give off a similar display of colour at night when they are magnificently illuminated by Jonathan Park's light installation, visible from far and wide. They make for a spectacular sight and are, in the truest sense of the word, a highlight of a visit to the park.

The Landschaftspark has also been making a name for itself in the media and with events organisers with its converted halls and facilities. Professionals from the media world value the park as a versatile photo and film backdrop and events organisers admire the special ambience. This is why the Landschaftspark has for years been the venue for all sorts of trade fairs and events and a hub for culture and art.

Day and night, a place of wonder.

Experience

The Landschaftspark is a place of movement. Adrenaline-fuelled, across the high ropes course and the climbing garden exploring the depths in the diving gasometer: every corner holds a unique experience.

And yet diving and climbing are just two of the many opportunities which the park has waiting for sport enthusiasts. Walking, cycling or simply enjoying the view from Blast Furnace 5 – the extensive site is exactly right for every taste – for children there are lots of play areas, a Trend sports hall for skating, football and volleyball as well as street basketball and even a Farm School.

A very different experience is promised by the Main Switching House bistro where, in comfort and peace and quiet, you can enjoy both the menu and the spectacular view of the blast furnace works.
